

Rechargeable repairs

This leaflet provides guidance on our policy on rechargeable repairs and is intended to outline the costs involved from October 2011.

This leaflet can be made available on request in a variety of different languages and formats such as large print, CD or Braille.

Policy on Rechargeable Repairs

Rechargeable repairs are those for which the tenant is responsible and has to pay for.

For example, rechargeable repairs would include any repair damage that tenants, their family or visitors have caused whether wilfully, accidentally or negligently.

No recharge will apply for any damage arising through fair wear and tear.

If damage is due to vandalism, tenants must immediately report the matter to the police and get an incident number, if possible.

For tenants with particular needs for whom this is not possible, we will provide appropriate assistance.

Procedure on Rechargeable Repairs

We have established a specific procedure on rechargeable repairs. Further information on rechargeable repairs can be found in our Right to Repair Policy.

The key parts of the rechargeable repairs procedure are as follows:

- tenants should pay for damage for which they are responsible throughout the tenancy;
- the Council will provide an estimate for carrying out the repair, including administrative charges;
- tenants can repay the charge by instalments;
- tenants may carry out the repair through a reputable contractor;

Often rechargeable repairs arise when a tenant renounces their tenancy and we inspect the property ahead of it being returned to us.

Note

Any accidental damage, although rechargeable, may be covered by a tenant's home insurance policy.

The level of cleaning stated is as follows:

A basic clean refers to situations where a property requires a general clean to bring it up to the void relet standard but generally the property is reasonably clean. This determines that kitchen and bathrooms must be 'sparkle clean.' It would also include vacuuming carpets etc.

A medium level clean refers to situations where the level of cleaning is more indepth than that above. This may include cleaning kitchen units to remove grease and evident grime, cleaning the bathroom suite to remove stains and removing debris.

A deep clean may include situations where a more substantial clean is required. This may include substantial volumes of debris left behind, stains such as (but not limited to) nicotine stains on wall surfaces/kitchen units/ceilings/heaters and sockets etc.

Our staff will make a determination as to the level of clean required and this must be substantiated by photographic evidence.

There will always be situations where a rechargeable repair has been obscured during a pre-tenancy termination for example a hole in a wall has been covered by furniture. A clause will be included in the covering letter to explain that should such a situation arise, a recharge may be levied accordingly.
